

Article Directories: How to Submit

If you are interested in submitting content to article directories you are not alone. But of course, before you can do this you need to learn the submission process. This is a simple process to pick up on, and as long as you take your time you will be submitting articles in no time at all. The good thing is that once you are familiar with the submission process of article directories you will be able to seamlessly move through it each time that you write a new piece.

The first step to submitting an article is to compose the content. You do not want to get so far ahead of yourself that you are not submitting good articles. Make sure that you proofread and double check each article before you begin the article submission process.

Once you have written an article, you can navigate to the submission page. Generally speaking, there are only a few boxes that need to be filled out on this page. You will start at the top with the article title; this is easy enough to complete. From there, you will choose a category that most closely fits your article. Make sure that you are as accurate as possible when it comes to choosing the category. This way, visitors to the article directory will be able to find your content.

The next step is to upload the article content. In most cases, you can copy and paste this directly into the box that is made available.

Finally, you will want to include useful information in the about author resource box. This is where you can include some details on yourself as well as a link to your website. Make sure that you double check your facts in this box before you move forward.

When everything is adequately filled out, the last step is to hit the submit button. From there, the article directory will either approve or deny your article. As long as you did not break any rules, your article should be live in no time at all.

As you can see, the article submission is no difficult task.

About the Author

ArticleDragon is an Article Directory of quality articles, free to use in your newsletter or website. Article Dragon accepts only fresh informative articles that are reviewed for quality by our quality assurance editorial team before you ever see them.

Make Article Submission part of your SEO strategy.

Source: <http://www.thewritemarket.com>